Case No. 2:12-cv-01264-RFB-VCF

ORDER ADOPTING REPORT & RECOMMENDATION OF
MAGISTRATE JUDGE CAM
FERENBACH, DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTION TO STRIKE, DENYING
PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO VACATE,
AND GRANTING DEFENDANTS'
COUNTERMOTION FOR SANCTIONS

I. INTRODUCTION

Before the Court for consideration is the Report and Recommendation of Magistrate Judge Cam Ferenbach (ECF No. 323) granting Defendant's Amended Motion for Attorney Fees (ECF No. 303), Defendant's Countermotions for Sanctions (ECF Nos. 299, 312), Plaintiff's Motion to Strike (ECF No. 309), and Plaintiff's Motion to Vacate Judgment or Order Due to Judicial Prejudice, Judicial Misconduct, Procedural Errors and Lack of Jurisdiction (ECF No. 294).

II. BACKGROUND

On April 11, 2016, Plaintiff filed his Motion to Vacate Judgment or Order Due to Judicial Prejudice, Judicial Misconduct, Procedural Errors and Lack of Jurisdiction. ECF No. 294. On May 13, 2016, Defendant First Option filed its Amended Motion for Attorney Fees. ECF No.

1 303. On May 24, 2016, Plaintiff filed his Motion to Strike Defendant's Response to his
2 opposition to Judge Ferenbach's first Report and Recommendation (ECF No. 296) that dismissed
3 Defendant's Motion for Attorney Fees without prejudice. ECF No. 309. On June 20, 2016,
4 Plaintiff filed his Motion to Strike First Option's Amended Motion for Attorney Fees.¹ ECF No.
5 316. On July 5, 2016, First Option filed its Response to Plaintiff's Motion to Strike. ECF No.
6 321. On July 28, 2016, Judge Ferenbach issued a Report and Recommendation that First
7 Option's Amended Motion for Attorney Fees (ECF No. 303) should be granted, that First Option
8 should be awarded $189,908.65, and that Plaintiff's Motion to Extend Time (ECF No. 308) be 9 denied as moot. ECF No. 323. On August 15, 2016, Plaintiff filed his Objection to Judge
10 Ferenbach's Report and Recommendation. ECF No. 324. On September 1, 2016, First Option
11 filed its Response to Plaintiff's Objection. ECF No. 325.

15 III. REPORT & RECOMMENDATION (ECF No. 323)

16 A. Legal Standard

17
18 A district court "may accept, reject, or modify, in whole or in part, the findings or 19 recommendations made by the magistrate." 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). A party may file specific 20 written objections to the findings and recommendations of a magistrate judge. 28 U.S.C.
21 § 636(b)(1); Local Rule IB 3-2(a). When written objections have been filed, the district court is 22 required to "make a de novo determination of those portions of the report or specified proposed 23 findings or recommendations to which objection is made." 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); see also Local 24 Rule IB 3-2(b). Where a party fails to object, however, a district court is not required to conduct
25
26
27

28 ¹ Because Plaintiff's arguments focus exclusively on First Option's Amended Motion for Attorney Fees (ECF No. 303), Judge Ferenbach treated this motion as a Response (ECF No. 316).

1 “any review,” de novo or otherwise, of the report and recommendations of a magistrate judge.
2 Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140, 149 (1985).

3 “There is no general right to recover attorney’s fees under the Bankruptcy Code.”
4 Renfrow v. Draper, 232 F.3d 688, 693 (9th Cir. 2000). “[A] prevailing party in a bankruptcy
5 proceeding may be entitled to an award of attorney fees in accordance with applicable state law
6 if state law governs the substantive issues in the proceedings.” In re Baroff, 105 F.3d, 439, 441
7 (9th Cir. 1997).

8
9 However, “[w]hen a statute provides for such fees, it is termed a ‘fee-shifting’ statute.
10 Under a fee-shifting statute, the court ‘must calculate awards for attorneys’ fees using the 11 ‘lodestar’ method[.]’” Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 965 (9th Cir. 2003) (citation omitted).
12 This “is calculated by multiplying the number of hours the prevailing party reasonably expended
13 on the litigation by a reasonable hourly rate.” Morales v. City of San Rafael, 96 F.3d 359, 363 14 (9th Cir. 1996). “After making that computation, the district court then assesses whether it is 15 necessary to adjust the presumptively reasonable lodestar figure on the basis of 16 the Kerr factors that are not already subsumed in the initial lodestar calculation.” Id. at 363-64.

17 These factors include:

18
19 (1) the time and labor required, (2) the novelty and difficulty of the questions 20 involved, (3) the skill requisite to perform the legal service properly, (4) the 21 preclusion of other employment by the attorney due to acceptance of the case, (5)
22 the customary fee, (6) whether the fee is fixed or contingent, (7) time limitations 23 imposed by the client or the circumstances, (8) the amount involved and the 24 results obtained, (9) the experience, reputation, and ability of the attorneys, (10)
25 the “undesirability” of the case, (11) the nature and length of the professional 26 relationship with the client, and (12) awards in similar cases.

26 Kerr v. Screen Extras Guild, Inc., 526 F.2d 67, 70 (9th Cir. 1975) (abrogated on other 27 grounds by City of Burlington v. Dague, 505 U.S. 557, 112 S.Ct. 2638, 120 L.Ed.2d 449 (1992)).
28

1 “When the district court makes its award, it must explain how it came up with the 2 amount.” Moreno v. City of Sacramento, 534 F.3d 1106, 1111 (9th Cir. 2008). “The explanation
3 need not be elaborate, but it must be comprehensible.” Id. “When the difference between the 4 lawyer’ request and the court’s award is relatively small, a somewhat cursory explanation will
5 suffice.” Id. “But where the disparity is larger, a more specific articulation of the court’s
6 reasoning is expected.” Id. “Nevertheless, the district court can impose a small reduction, no
7 greater than 10 percent – a ‘haircut’ – based on its exercise of discretion without a more specific 8 explanation.” Id. at 1112.

11 B. Discussion

12
13 Plaintiff makes various arguments throughout his objection regarding the inaccuracy of 14 the fee calculations Judge Ferenbach considered in recommending Defendant’s Amended 15 Motion for Attorney Fees (ECF No. 303) be granted. Additionally, Plaintiff argues that there was 16 no statutory basis for awarding attorney fees. Plaintiff also argues that his motion for extension 17 of time (ECF No. 308) was unjustly denied. Finally, Plaintiff argues that Defendant is not the 18 prevailing party because an appeal was pending before the Ninth Circuit at the time.
19

20 There was no objection to Judge Ferenbach’s finding that Defendant was not entitled to 21 attorney fees for proceedings that took place in bankruptcy court, so these findings are adopted in 22 full. Further, Plaintiff has not made specific objections to Judge Ferenbach’s findings supporting 23 the award of attorney fees. Instead, Plaintiff makes general assertions that the Court committed 24 mathematical error, could not ascertain whether Defendant actually did the alleged work, and 25 that Defendant was overstaffed for the work that was done. These general assertions are not 26
27
28

1 enough to refute the thorough analysis Judge Ferenbach conducted regarding Defendant's billing
2 invoices.

3 Also, Plaintiff argues that there was no statutory basis for awarding attorney fees in this 4 case. This is incorrect. The attorney fees were awarded under 28 U.S.C. § 1927. See ECF No.
5 296. Further, Plaintiff argues that Defendant was not the prevailing party because there was a
6 pending appeal. This argument has already been rejected during the course of this litigation
7 because this Court still retains the power to award attorney fees during the pendency of an 8 appeal. See Masalosalo by Masalosalo v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 718 F.2d 955, 956 (9th Cir. 1983).
9 Moreover, Plaintiff's appeal has already been dismissed. See ECF No. 326. Finally, Judge
10 Ferenbach denied Plaintiff's motion to extend time (ECF No. 308) as moot after conducting an 11 analysis of the attorney fees. The Court finds no legal reason to disturb Judge Ferenbach's 12 findings and therefore adopts them in full.

16 IV. DEFENDANTS' COUNTERMOTIONS FOR SANCTIONS (ECF Nos. 299, 312)

17 A. Legal Standard

18 Under the All Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a), a district court has the authority to issue 19 writs (such as defendant's requested prefiling order) that are "necessary and appropriate" in 20 aiding its jurisdiction to prevent litigants who file frivolous lawsuits from continuing to abuse the 21 judicial process. See Molski v. Evergreen Dynasty Corp., 500 F.3d 1047, 1057 (9th Cir. 2007).
22 "Flagrant abuse of the judicial process cannot be tolerated because it enables one person to 23 preempt the use of judicial time that properly could be used to consider the meritorious claims of 24 other litigants." De Long v. Hennessey, 912 F.2d 1144, 1148 (9th Cir. 1990). However, declaring 25 litigants as vexatious and entering prefiling orders "are an extreme remedy that should rarely be 26
27
28

1 used.” Id. (citation omitted). Courts should be cautious of using such orders because they have
2 the potential to “tread on a litigant’s due process right of access to the courts.” Id. (citation
3 omitted). Courts should enter these orders “only after a cautious review of the pertinent
4 circumstances.” Id.

5
6 In De Long, the Ninth Circuit outlined four factors a district court must consider before
7 entering a prefiling order declaring a litigant vexatious. De Long, 912 F.2d at 1147-48. First, the 8 litigant must be given notice and an opportunity to be heard before a court enters its order. Id. at 9 1147. Second, a court must “create an adequate record for review.” Id. Third, a court must make
10 “substantive findings as to the frivolous or harassing nature of the litigant’s actions.” Id. at 1148
11 (citing In re Powell, 851 F.2d 427, 431 (D.C. Cir. 1988)). Fourth, a court’s order “must be 12 narrowly tailored to closely fit the specific vice encountered.” De Long, 912 F.2d at 1148.

14 Providing the litigant with notice and opportunity to be heard is a core requirement of due 15 process. Id. at 1147. However, this does not necessarily require that a litigant have an 16 opportunity to be heard at an oral hearing regarding the litigant potentially being declared
17 vexatious. See Molski, 500 F.3d at 1058-59; Pac. Harbor Capitol Inc. v. Carnival Airlines, Inc., 18 210 F.3d 1112, 1118 (9th Cir. 2000) (finding “an opportunity to be heard does not require an oral 19 or evidentiary hearing on the issue... [t]he opportunity to brief the issue fully satisfies due 20 process requirements”). Instead, this requires the litigant had fair notice that he might potentially 21 be declared a vexatious litigant, and if prompted by a defendant’s motion, allows the litigant the 22 opportunity to contest it. See Molski, 500 F.3d 1058.

23
24
25 An adequate record for review should include a listing of all the cases and motions that 26 led the district court to conclude that a prefiling order declaring a litigant as vexatious was 27 needed. De Long, 912 F.3d at 1147. “At the least, the record needs to show, in some manner, 28

1 that the litigant's activities were numerous or abusive.” Id. However, creating an adequate record
2 for review does not require the court list every case filed by the litigant. See Molski, 500 F.3d at 3 1059; Ringgold-Lockhart v. County of Los Angeles, 761 F.3d 1057, 1063 (9th Cir. 2014).

4
5 When issuing a prefiling order declaring a pro-se litigant as vexatious, “it is incumbent
6 on the court to make ‘substantive findings as to the frivolous or harassing nature of the litigant's
7 actions.’” De Long, 912 F.3d at 1148 (citing Powell, 851 F.2d at 431). To make this finding the 8 court must look at “‘both the number and content of the filings as indicia’ of the frivolousness of 9 the litigant's claims.” De Long, 912 F.3d at 1148 (citing Powell, 851 F.2d at 431). However, a 10 mere showing of litigiousness is not enough. Molski, 500 F.3d at 1059. “The [litigant’s] claims
11 must not only be numerous, but also be patently without merit.” Id. (citing Moy v. U.S., 906 F.2d
12 467, 470 (9th Cir. 2007)). An alternative to finding frivolousness, is finding that the litigant’s
13 claims demonstrate a pattern of harassment. De Long, 912 F.3d at 1148.

15 These orders declaring a litigant as vexatious must have boundaries. De Long, 912 F.3d
16 at 1148. They “must be narrowly-tailored to closely fit the specific vice encountered.”
17 Id. “Narrowly tailored orders are needed ‘to prevent infringement on the litigator's right of 18 access to the courts.’” Id. (citations omitted). An order is narrow when it only applies to the type 19 of claims the litigant has been filing vexatiously. Compare Molski, 500 F.3d at 1061 (finding 20 order preventing litigant from filing Title III ADA claims in the Central District of California
21 was narrowly because it only applied to the types of claims the litigant had been filing
22 vexatiously in that court), with De Long, 912 F.3d at 1148 (finding order preventing litigant from 23 filing any further actions in the court without leave of the court as not being narrowly tailored).

24 25 26 B. Discussion

27 Defendants argue that Plaintiff should be declared a vexatious litigant based on numerous 28

1 frivolous filings in this case, duplicative states and bankruptcy actions, and various appeals
2 before the Ninth Circuit. Because of this, Defendants argue that this Court should enter a
3 prefiling order against Plaintiff preventing him from making further filings in this case and
4 award Defendants attorney fees. Plaintiff argues that Defendants fail to demonstrate Plaintiff's
5 conduct meets the standard set out in De Long, and that attorney fees should not be awarded
6 because Defendants failed to show he acted in bad faith.
7

8 This Court finds that Plaintiff is a vexatious litigant under the De Long standard. First,
9 Plaintiff received fair notice because the Defendants' motions indicate he could potentially be 10 declared a vexatious litigant, and Plaintiff had the opportunity to oppose these motions. In fact,
11 Plaintiff had the opportunity to fully brief the issue and filed responses to both Defendants'
12 motions. See ECF Nos. 307, 317. This Court considered these responses in determining whether 13 to enter an order against Plaintiff. Therefore, Plaintiff received notice and was heard on the issue.
14

15 Second, Plaintiff's litigation history is extensive, spanning for almost five years, and in 16 various courts. Plaintiff has filed four separate appeals with the Ninth Circuit throughout the 17 extent of this litigation. See ECF Nos. 108, 209, 275, 329. One of which is currently pending.
18 See ECF 329. Also, during the course of discovery Plaintiff filed duplicative motions objecting
19 to Defendants videotaping his deposition. See ECF Nos. 188-191. Plaintiff continued to object
20 even after the Court ordered the video deposition be taken (ECF No. 204). See ECF No. 213.
21 Further, this Court entered a judgment against Plaintiff on December 30, 2015, but still this 22 action has continued. See ECF No. 267. After the close of the case, Plaintiff has continued to 23 move for injunction relief (ECF No. 289-291), has attempted to compel discovery (ECF No.
24 295), and has moved to strike Defendants' filings (ECF No. 309).
25
26
27
28

1 Third, the Court finds that many of these numerous filing are frivolous in nature. For 2 instance, Plaintiff has attempted to appeal nonappealable orders, which have subsequently been 3 dismissed. See, e.g. ECF No. 209. Plaintiff has had one of his four appeals dismissed for failure
4 to prosecute because he did not file his opening brief. See ECF No. 275. Nonetheless, Plaintiff
5 currently has an appeal pending before the Ninth Circuit of this Court's Order on the Mandate
6 (ECF No. 328) regarding the dismissal of Plaintiff's earlier appeal (ECF No. 275)—which was 7 dismissed for failure to prosecute. Additionally, Plaintiff failed to appear for his video deposition
8 twice, and contested a court order to do so, which ultimately led to case-dispositive discovery
9 sanctions being entered against Plaintiff. See ECF Nos. 255, 266. Plaintiff has gone so far as 10 requesting this Court provide him injunctive relief (ECF No. 289-291), and then later arguing
11 that this Court did not have jurisdiction to consider the request in the first place that he himself
12 filed, only after the Court had denied it. See ECF No. 294. Further, Plaintiff moved to strike one
13 of Defendant's responses for lack of or insufficient service (ECF No. 309); however, Defendants
14 demonstrated Plaintiff was adequately served.

15
17
18 Fourth, this Court's order declaring Plaintiff a vexatious litigant is narrowly tailored. It
19 does not infringe on Plaintiff's right of access to the courts, and only addresses his vexatious
20 conduct in this case. In Molski, the Court found an order was narrowly tailored when it
21 prevented a litigant from filing any claims under Title III of the ADA in a particular district. This 22 order does even less than the order in Molski that the Ninth Circuit upheld. Rather than barring 23 Plaintiff from filing a particular category of claims, this order simply precludes Plaintiff from 24 making any further filings in this case without leave of the Court.

25
26 Therefore, the Court has met its burden under De Long, and accordingly declares Plaintiff a 27 vexatious litigant.
28

1 V. PLAINTIFF’S MOTION TO STRIKE (ECF No. 309)

2 Plaintiff alleges that he was never served with Defendant’s Response (ECF No. 306) to 3 his objections to Judge Ferenbach’s Report and Recommendation (ECF No. 296), and therefore
4 did not have an opportunity to file a reply brief. Thus, Plaintiff seeks to strike Defendant’s
5 Response on this basis.
6

7 This court requires that all filing must have a proof of service attached, and “[t]he proof
8 must show the day and manner of service and the name of the person served. Proof of service
9 may be by written acknowledgment of service or certificate of the person who made service.” LR
10 5-1(a). Here, Defendant included a certificate of service with its response (ECF No. 306) and 11 provided further proof of service, such as United States Postal Service tracking information and a 12 declaration from Defendant’s counsel, in its response (ECF No. 311) to Plaintiff’s motion. This 13 is sufficient to show that Defendant served Plaintiff with its response. This motion is denied.
14

16 VI. PLAINTIFF’S MOTION TO VACATE JUDGEMENT OR ORDER DUE TO 17 JUDICIAL PREJUDICE, JUDICIAL MISCONDUCT, PROCEDURAL ERRORS
18 AND LACK OF JURISDICTION (ECF No. 294).

19 Plaintiff argues that the Court should vacate its minutes (ECF No. 293) because the 20 presiding judge was prejudiced and committed misconduct during the injunctive relief hearing,
21 and that the Court lacked jurisdiction to rule on the motion he filed with the Court. Defendant
22 argues that Plaintiff’s motion was premature because no written order was issued, the Court was 23 not prejudiced and did not commit misconduct, and the Court had jurisdiction to makes its 24 ruling.
25

26 First, a party may move for the court to amend or alter its judgment. Fed. R. Civ. P. 59.
27 Also, a party may move for the court to vacate its judgement. Fed. R. Civ. P. 60. For the 28

1 purposes of these motions, a minute order can constitute a dispositive order where the document
2 “(1) stated on its face that it was an order; (2) was mailed to the parties; and (3) was entered on 3 the docket as an order.” Ingram v. ACandS Inc., 977 F.2d 1332, 1338 (9th Cir. 1992). Second,
4 judicial misconduct is only present if a judge “shows actual bias or leaves an abiding impression
5 that [demonstrates] an appearance of advocacy or partiality.” U.S. v. Laurins, 857 F.2d 529, 537
6 (9th Cir. 1988). Simply interrupting counsel is not enough. See Id. Third, a district court retains 7 jurisdiction to issue injunctive relief while an appeal is pending. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(c); Fed.
8 R. App. P. 8(a)(1).

10 This Court’s minutes (ECF No. 293) stated “IT IS ORDERED,” copies were distributed
11 to the parties, and the minutes were entered on the docket. Accordingly, this Court finds 12 Plaintiff’s motion was not premature because these minutes can serve as a dispositive order.
13 However, no judicial misconduct occurred at the injunctive relief hearing. The Court stated that 14 the knowledge of the pending sale, which Plaintiff argues indicates prejudice, had no effect on 15 the Court’s ruling on the pending motion before it. Moreover, the Court simply interrupted
16 Plaintiff at times during the hearing to clarify and focus the discussion on relevant issues, but the 17 Court did not act in a biased fashion. Additionally, this Court had jurisdiction to hear Plaintiff’s
18 motion because the Court was ruling on a motion for injunctive relief, which Plaintiff himself
19 moved this Court to consider, while an appeal was pending. Therefore, no judicial misconduct or 20 prejudice was present, and the court retained jurisdiction to hear the motion while an appeal was 21 pending. This motion is denied.

1 VII. CONCLUSION

2 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Defendant's Countermotions for Sanctions (ECF Nos
3 299, 312) are GRANTED.

4 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Report and Recommendation (ECF No. 323) is 5 ADOPTED in full and that Defendants' Amended Motion for Attorney Fees (ECF No. 303) is 6 GRANTED.
7

8 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiff is hereby declared to be a vexatious litigant
9 in this case. He shall NOT file any further motions in this case without permission of the Court.
10 He may ONLY file a motion seeking leave to fill further motions that have a legal basis. He may 11 NOT file any other motions until the Court rules on his motion, if he files it, requesting 12 permission to file other motions. Plaintiff can file without permission an appeal of this Court's 13 rulings in this Order or other rulings of this Court that could be subject to appeal.
14

15 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion to Strike (ECF No. 309) is 16 DENIED.
17

18 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion to Vacate Judgment or Order Due 19 to Judicial Prejudice, Judicial Misconduct, Procedural Errors and Lack of Jurisdiction (ECF No.
20 294) is DENIED.

21 DATED: March 29, 2017.
